Esteemed Friend:

I received last evening, supercribed by you, the precious and very beautiful Memorial of your beloved and honored wife. This gift I shall preserve among my most valued treasures. I have thought ^{and} of you, since your bereavement, but have been confident that ^{your} dear faith and hope in the wisdom and goodness that overrules all, would sustain you in all your afflictions. Your dear wife's benign countenance was always a blessing to me, when I have been privileged to sit under your roof. My wife unites with me, in true sympathy for you in your trial, as well as with all your household. With much esteem, yours truly, Mrs. Lloyd Garrison. E. A. Hunt.
